COMMENTS FROM THE TOWN MANAGER'S OFFICE

The state aid road work is completed for this year on the Middle Intervale Road, 2300 feet having been built. The final work was the applying a coat of MC2 asphalt.

The highway department has been employed by the county to expend their Town Road Improvement Fund on the Bog Road in Mason.

There is $1200 available for this work, which will be started this week and finished early next week.

The first of two cars of salt of 60 tons each for the winter road arrived last week. The second car was ordered to be delivered Jan. 6th. It is interesting to note that the freight is the same as the price of the salt, $8.40 per ton. It might be well to point out at this time that any funds expended for winter road work from now until Dec. 31st will be deficit spending. The 1958 appropriation was used during the period from Jan. 1, 1958 through the rest of the winter. There are only two ways to avoid this situation, either to have a special town meeting to appropriate the required amount or fail to provide plowing or sanding. It is apparent that it would be unnecessary to have a special meeting as it was brought out at the annual town meeting as to the situation with the voters given an opportunity to act, which was not done. Certainly everyone wants good plowed roads, ice sand and snow removed from the streets. Therefore the only thing left to do is to show a deficit balance at the end of the year.

The highway department has been operating on a 64 hour week since the first of May. Effective Oct. 1st it will be cut back to 40 hours, five days of nine hours each. It is also operating with one less regular employee, who will not be replaced.

Sincerely,
Harold L. Bean

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Sir:

Can any of your readers tell me anything about the story of the bird who pulled the feathers of a bird and later lost all his hair? I am making a study of it and would like to have any of the following information: Where did they hear the story and when? Where is it supposed to have happened? Who was the man? What kind of bird? How did they hear the story told? I will appreciate any and all help.

THE AMERICAN WAY

By George Peck
Editor's Note: George Peck is President of the Laymen's National Committee, sponsor of National Bible Week. The week of October 26-31 is to be observed as National Bible Week. This will be the 18th annual observance of this important week under the sponsorship of the Laymen's National Committee (an affiliate organization dedicated to promoting in every possible way reading of the Bible; and Church, Synagogue and Sunday School attendance). The theme for 18th National Bible Week is: THE BIBLE THE WORD OF LIFE. How true that is!

Throughout our history, the leading statements of this nation have publicly declared their convictions regarding God's Holy Book. Perhaps it would be well here to quote the statements of several of our presidents:

The Father of Our Country, George Washington, had this to say of the Bible: "Above all, the pure and benign light of (the) Revelation has had a mediating influence on mankind, and increased the blessings of society."

Thomas Jefferson expressed his opinion of the Bible thusly: "I always have said, and always will say, that the studios perusal of the sacred volume will make better citizens, better fathers, and better husbands."

"The first and almost the only book deserving of universal attention is the Bible," declared John Quincy Adams, adding, "I speak as a man of the world, and I say to you, 'Search the Scriptures!'"

Andrew Jackson said it tersely: "It is the Bible is the rock on which our Republic rests." Please note he referred to the U. S. as a "Republic" not as a "Union."

Attributing the early settlement of our country to the Bible, Zachary Taylor said it this way: "It was for the love of the truths of this great and good book (the Bible) that our fathers abandoned their native shore for the wilderness."

Abraham Lincoln, the Great Emancipator found the Bible profitable. He said "I am profoundly engaged in reading the Bible. Take all of this book upon reason that you can and the balance by faith and you will live and die a better man."

Just fast to the Bible as the great author of your liberty—Thomas S. Grant advised: "To the influence of this book we are indebted for the progress made, and to this we must look as our guide to the future."

Breaking in on comments of our presidents regarding the Bible, here is what General Robert E. Lee had to say: "The Bible is a book to be read with which all others to my eyes are of value importance, and which is an ever-present aid and defense has never failed to give me light and strength."

Today Roosevelt praised the Bible in these words: "Almost every man who has by his life-work added to the sum of human achievement of which the race is proud, almost every such man has based his life-work largely upon the teachings of the Bible."

President Woodrow Wilson, formerly president of Princeton University, left no doubt as to the high regard in which he held the Bible by saying: "A man has devoted himself to the best there is in the world when he has devoted himself to the knowledge of the Bible."

LIFE LINES

by Col. Ralph T. Miller of The Salvation Army

THE DISTANT DRUMMER

A recent news story in the daily press tells of "Zullivan the Tailor" of Cambridge. He learned early in his career that the customer is always right. Some one came in to order a suit, with a strange-shaped collar. "But nobody wears collars like that now," the tailor exclaimed.

"Don't tell me what people are wearing. You tell them what I'm wearing."

It isn't easy to be different, to think for yourself, to set your own pattern, in an age of conformity. Almost all of the advertising on television and in the daily press has this one theme: "You must do what everyone else is doing."

It takes courage to be different. But now and then, we find a person who is willing to. Those rare individuals are the hope of the world.

A century ago, there lived upon the shore of Walden Pond such a man. His name was Henry David Thoreau. He was constantly out of step with the rest of the community. Once, in exasperation, Emerson asked him, "Henry, what is wrong with you?"

Thoreau answered at once, "It is only because I am marching to the beat of another and a distant drummer."

It is not easy to do that—to keep your head, when all about you are losing theirs. But it can be done.

MAN'S RECIPE

RED FLANNEL HASH

There are times when I am deeply concerned about your ingrained attitudes. No wonder the social and cultural situation is so dismal. You smile when I tell you to eat desserts at the front end of meals when take outs are keener. You won't clean buds and organize that hall closet; you won't buy a few more coat hangers.

Flourish A. (for Auntie) Winkler, whiffers, my gardening opponent over on Woodpecker Ridge in Hilltown, doesn't agree with me. That is a matter of principle. But he says to tell you that this red flannel hash is a superior dish.

The genuine, pristine product. What you call red flannel hash, the left overs of a corn beef meal, is really called hash.

The true red flannel hash is 80 per cent cooked chopped beef, 12 per cent cooked, chopped potatoes, and three per cent chopped onions. The only other ingredients are four or five slices of lean bacon, fried crisp, and broken into small bits. Use some of the bacon fat for grease in which to fry the hash.

Mix the beef, potatoes and onion well. An old iron spider is best, but any frying pan is better than none if you can have this hash for supper. Be sure it is piping hot. I like to fry it until some of the hash is crispy and chewy.

Use me two generous helpings of this, plenty of bread and butter, pickles, a quarter of juicy squash and a cup or two of honest coffee, and I will call it a square meal.

COUNTRY FLAVOR

To him who has a feeling for history, there is poignant meaning in old cellar holes. You find them along back country roads, on the shoulders of hills and on mountain slopes. The holes tell a story of yesterday—a part of our history before the era of modern farm machinery. They speak of pioneer times when men and women left the security of settled communities and went forth to make new homes in the wilderness.

A century and more ago, this thin-soiled hillside was a thriving farm. A home was built on this foundation. A man and his bride cleared the land, made a garden and set out an orchard. Over the years, boys and girls grew to manhood and womanhood. For two or three generations it was a family farm, and then bright lights in growing cities called young folks from the long hours and hard work of the farms. Stories came back the week. One by one the back-country farms were abandoned.

Now the old cellar holes are filled with stumps, birches and spruce. A peony pokes its glowing brown head above green grasses. Each spring a few blossoms on the old purple lilacs spread fragrance in the air. Out on the hillside giant apple trees hold suppliant, wringing arms above crowding pines and maples.

Old cellar holes are not sad and depressing. They represent something fine and good. They tell the story of a period when a new nation was expanding and building the foundation that has meant a new philosophy of life for human beings. Now the old cellar holes dwindle. Each year Nature takes back land which man for a time claimed for his own, but for generations to come cellar holes will remain—reminders of the courage and hope of yesterday.

THE WORLD'S MOST WIDELY USED DEVOTIONAL GUIDE

Thursday, October 9
Read Colossians 3:14-17
For as we have many members in one body, and all members have not the same office; so we, being many, are one body, one and the same members, one and the same members of one another. (Romans 12:4, 5)

LAST year two Japanese youths were among those who attended the East Asian Journalism Seminary in Manila. One Sunday morning we went to church together. The language used was Pampango, one of the many dialects spoken in the Philippines.

At the worship service later on, the guests were requested to say a few words of greeting to the congregation.

One of the young men stood up and spoke in English. He said, "We have not understood much that has been spoken or sung here this morning, except two words: Cristo and Amen."

But those words have made us feel a deep sense of belonging. We have caught the message that we are all one body in Christ, and our hearts have echoed "Amen."

How wonderful that Christ binds together all men who love Him! Differences of race, culture, and social class fall away; there is oneness in Christ.

PRAYER: Our Father, we thank Thee for the gift of Thy Son, Jesus Christ. We thank Thee that through Him all men can be one. Will Thou help us to feel that deep sense of belonging to Thee and to one another, in Jesus' name we ask it, Amen.

Thought for the Day
In Christ true hearts everywhere find fellowship.

THE RIGHT TO SPEAK—AND THE RIGHT TO KNOW
A ruling of the Internal Revenue Service, holding that institutional advertising placed by electric utilities in opposition to socialized power is not a legitimate business expense, and so is not tax deductible, has brought on a huge amount of editorial comment. Virtually all of it has denounced the ruling, as a blow at the fundamental right of free speech.

However, some people have attempted to present arguments in support of IRS. For instance, Editor & Publisher points out, "This question has been asked: 'Why should the private power companies be permitted to argue against public power projects when the government-owned power operations do no advertising of their own?'"

Editor & Publisher has a compelling answer to that. Public power has a forum that is denied to private utilities and private business. That forum is Congress, where non-profit power companies certainly would have no voice.

So the answer, this is usually correct, and finds its way into newspapers and radio broadcasts throughout the country.
Editor & Publisher adds: "Why shouldn't private industry or private utilities use advertising to tell their story to the public at business expense even when it involves their approval or disapproval of some government action or a legislative matter which affects them?"

"Is it evil when the advertiser puts himself on record in the public prints and signs his name to it? We don't think so. It is a straightforward and honest assertion of an opinion for others to accept or reject."

The right of people to speak their minds without penalty of hindrance, and the right of other people to know, is at stake in this. A country which accepts censorship by location can no longer consider itself free.

Yes, it is true that Sunday brought us a reminder of what winter will be like, with its chilling winds and a snow flurry or two in the air, and a night temperature of 25° but neither winds nor weather could chill the atmosphere at the Grange Hall Saturday evening, October 4th. After a good sized crowd had gathered there from Upton, Rumford, Mexico, Bethel and other places, the lights were turned out, and some of the younger folks went to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Lombard, asking him to please come over and fix the lights. When they appeared at the Hall door, the lights suddenly came on again, showing it prettily decorated in honor of the 25th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Lombard. A friendship quilt and a money tree of silver dollars was presented to them. After they got over their astonishment a little, a receiving line was formed, and they shook hands with friends and relatives and all signed the beautiful guest book presented to them. The program was started with a flute solo by Jon Lafleur of Berlin, N. H. Then Melvin Bernier and Judy Judkins sang a number especially adapted for the occasion followed by a song from Mrs. Beatrice Judkins and Juanita Bernier. Mrs. Bea Judkins read an original poem written by her for the occasion. Miss Carrie Wight of Newry gave a reading, "Mrs. Puffer's Silver Wedding," and Jon Lafleur had another flute solo. The program was followed by a lunch and a few dances, with Roland Bernier as caller. Mrs. Simonee Lavalley made the wedding cake. Mrs. Alda Barnett had charge of the Hall decorations, done with silver leaves and pink and white crepe paper, with a beautiful centerpiece on the food table.

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Abbott of East Sumner came Saturday night and got their two younger children, Faith and Stuart, who had been visiting their grandparents for a week. There will be no school in the younger grades for a few days, as the teacher, Mrs. Beatrice Judkins, became ill Sunday. Mrs. Georgia Pratt has finished work at Mrs. Potter's and returned home.

APPLES FOR ALL OCCASIONS

An apple a day, or better yet several apples... that makes good sense. Throughout the country where apple harvesting is now in full swing, indications point to a large crop of high quality apples of many different varieties. To buy wisely, you will find it helpful to know how to distinguish one variety from another. There is a variety for every need. Each variety excels for its specific use. Most varieties serve well for more than one purpose.

McIntosh is the most common apple variety found on New England markets. You can recognize McIntosh apples by their bright, deep red color and medium size. These all-purpose apples are thin-skinned, firm, and have a spicy flavor. While used extensively for cooking, they cook up smooth and don't hold their shape as well as some varieties. Northern Spy Apples are a general purpose variety similar in characteristics to the McIntosh. These apples are brightly striped with red or yellow, and tend to be larger in size than Macs.

The Cortland apple, somewhat flatter in shape, has a deep red color (sometimes streaked with yellow) and usually a green cavity surrounding the stem. Its resistance to turning brown when cut makes it a unique member of the apple tribe, a type well suited to salads. Its flavor is juicy and somewhat tart.

Delicious apples are crisp, sweet eating apples that have an elongated shape tapering to five pointed points or knots at the blossom end. Tender-skinned Delicious apples may have either a red or golden colored skin. Because they readily lose their shape and become watery after cooking, these apples are not recommended for baking or sauce.

Baldwins are a medium sized apple. The light yellow or greenish skin is blushed or mottled with bright red, indistinctly striped with

GOULD ACADEMY

Teachers Elected to Serve On Committees

At the Maine Teachers' Convention in Bangor last week, which a number of Gould teachers attended, Miss Nollie Macdougall was elected Chairman of the Women's Deans and Counselors, Miss Dorothy Buccell, Latin and French teacher, was named Secretary of the Classical Languages meeting.

Big Attendance Expected at Gould Parents' Day

According to acceptances received of Elwood F. Ireland, Headmaster, about six hundred people are expected to attend the Parents' Day program and activities on Saturday, October 11th, at Gould Academy. A full schedule of events has been planned for the day beginning with the archery, tennis, and field hockey matches at 10:00 a. m.

With the Keets 2:30 p. m. The teams have been getting in lots of practice and should provide plenty of action. The football game with Lyndon Institute will begin at 2:00 p. m. The band will perform before the game and at half time.

Besides the marching songs which add so much to the football spirit, they have some drills and special numbers prepared. After the game students will meet for a social hour in Holden Hall where refreshments will be served. The parents will meet members of the faculty at 5:00 p. m. seniors and juniors with their parents, trustees, and faculty members will be served at the chicken barbecue in the field house; and at 6:00 p. m. freshmen and sophomores and their parents will be served. At 8:00 p.
m. the annual skit will be presented at the William Bingham Gymnasium for everyone.

Gould Takes Kennel Runners

Coach Augusta's Cross Country team won another victory a week ago Tuesday when they defeated Kennel High of North Conway 18-4. Bernier again won the event with a time of 12:40. The first 15 men came in as follows: 1-Bernier
(G), 2-Newson (G), 3-Taylor
(K), 4-Felt (G), 5-Carter (G), 6-
Lincoln (G), 8-Hutchins (K), 9-
Elliot (G), 10-Allen (G), 11-Cole
(G), 12-Yenton (G), 13-Brown
(G), 14-Westleigh (G), 15-Calef
(G).

These two victories have been one-sided, but the Portland High test should be a struggle. Don Angevine may be ready for this race which should strengthen Gould's chances.

Gould 6-Norway 19

Gould Academy dropped a 19-6 game to Norway High last Saturday, which put the Norwegians in the number one spot in the Western Maine Conference and dropped the Huskies into the cellar. Allen Robbins scored the first two touchdowns, one an eleven yard run jaunt in the first period, followed by a spectacular 82 yard run along the sidelines in the second period.

Gould's TD came in the second period when Fred Dallinger broke away for a 72 yard run to make the score 12-6 at half-time.

During the third period the teams played on even terms with neither team scoring. Norway, however, scored again in the final stanza as a Huff pass connected with left end Dave Eaton, who scampered 15 yards to score. Charlie Huff booted the extra point to bring the final score to 19-6.

LYNDON INSTITUTE AT GOULD

For Parents' Day Game

After 3 games in a row away from home the Huskies will play their final four encounters on their own field beginning with Lyndon Institute this Saturday in a Parents' Day feature. The Lyndon-Gould series has been a novel one in that the visiting team as yet has never won. Gould has never won at Lyndon, and the Vermonters have never won on the Bethel gridiron.

The Academy eleven, with only one win against two defeats, will have to show considerable improvement if they expect to continue their winning ways on their own field.

The game will start at 2:00 P.
M., as the feature event of Parents' Day. Both the Lyndon Institute and Gould bands will be performing as an added attraction for the many visitors expected on the campus.

Room For Family Living In This Colonial Home by Scholz

A charming bedroom suite with authentic colonial styling is the private domain of mother and dad in this stately structure. Heading the list of many features for more gracious living, the master suite has a full-size bath, two closets—one a large full-access unit with sliding doors—and plenty of daylight with a single window in addition to the large bay.

Children have not been forgotten by Designer Don Scholz, either. The home is ideal for a family with three youngsters—two sharing the second largest bedroom with its two closets, and one occupying the smallest of the rooms.

Of particular note is a feature popular with many homeowners—the extensive living-dining room overlooking the rear yard. Dining room has swing door opening on the patio.

If the house needs any additional attributes it has in the "U"-shape kitchen with double, artistically designed windows facing the street. The kitchen is conveniently accessible from the garage; has a laundry area with a broom closet behind; and boasts a cozy breakfast nook.

Noteworthy too, is the vast amount of storage space provided for in the large double garage. This gives extra storage facilities for a slab-floor basementless home.

For further detailed information on this home, write to: Don Scholz Design Associates, Dept. 108, 2001 N. Westwood, Toledo 7, Ohio.

PYTHIAN SISTERS ENDORSE HEART FUND PROGRAM

The Pythian Sisters of Maine once again have endorsed the Maine Heart Association and its programs, according to Frederick P. O'Connell, executive director of the Association.

O'Connell said the following statement of endorsement by Pythian Sister Grand Chief Mrs. Violet Doughty, of East Stoneham, was received:

"The Maine Heart Association is doing an excellent job of bringing the heart story to the people of Maine. The job will assume immense proportions during February, when the 1958 Heart Fund will be supported by thousands of volunteers. The volunteers will attempt to ask every adult Maine resident to support the research, education and community service programs which are designed to combat on all levels, the tragic effects of heart disease.

"The Pythian Sisters are proud to endorse, once again, the heart program. Indeed, there are a great many of us who will serve again as Heart Fund volunteer workers during the Heart Fund drive in February.

"The importance of the heart and circulatory research in Maine must not be underestimated. Progress in this field must continue, as it must in education and community services.

"To assure this progress, I urge the Pythian Sisters throughout Maine to repeat their successful Heart Fund volunteer work in 1959. It is only natural that we support our renewed efforts with a repetition of our generosity, giving freely to the Heart Fund, which is the sole support of the only voluntary health agency combatting heart disease."

SAFETY COMMITTEE LISTS SEVEN RULES FOR SAFE NIGHT DRIVING

The Maine Highway Safety Committee has listed some important rules for safe driving at night:

1. Slow Down. Speed should be governed by conditions, and darkness is a condition which calls for reduced speed and extra caution.

2. Be Alert. Keep a constant watch for pedestrians, bike riders and for vehicles with dim lights or no lights.

3. Turn on Your Own Lights at the First Sign of Dusk....before they are really needed. This is important because it helps other drivers to see you.

4. Use Headlights Properly. Use the low beam when following closely behind another car and when meeting oncoming cars. Dim your lights, even though the oncoming driver fails to dim his.

5. Make Certain Your Lights Are On. Be sure that you turn on your lights before you pull onto a roadway from a lighted parking area.

6. Never Stop on the Traveled Part of the Highway. If it is necessary to stop, pull completely off the road, leaving parking lights and dome light on. Carry flares for use in an emergency.

7. Drive by the Golden Rule. Give the other fellow more than an even break. Make courtesy your code of the road. Accept your responsibility behind the wheel. Be your brother's keeper.

Good Printing

It is as often the result of the printer's judgment and experience as of materials and equipment.

These are important factors in this plant, which may account for our increasing activity.

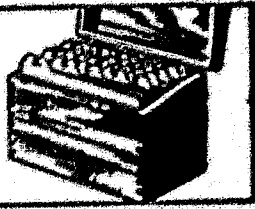

Good printing need not cost much more than the other kind, and may well be less expensive.

We are in touch with concerns who supply printing in specialized fields and can give pleasing prices and delivery.
